Lounges, libraries, bathrooms, hallways, elevators and electronic classrooms are not authorized locations to complete self-scheduled exams. Completing an exam in non-approved classrooms constitutes as an infraction of the academic integrity statement.

It is highly suggested that students review multiple classroom options before taking their exams in their designated areas. Additionally, students should review the Smith College Academic Integrity Statement before the final exam period.

Use of cellphones and smartwatches (even to keep track of the time) and other electronics during exams is PROHIBITED.

Exam type

Blue paper=open-book, open note—(not to be confused with the blue exam Books in which you write your exam responses)—any notes, books, or other resources may be used to complete the exams. Electronic text books are not permitted.

Yellow paper=some outside materials (calculators, notes, reference books, and dictionaries) might be permissible—the instructor will clearly state on the first page of the exam what may be used.

White paper=closed books, closed notes—no outside sources may be consulted for those exams.
